While some organizations are pretty basic in their approach to IT and need only minimal consulting services, other organizations have requirements that go "well beyond the basics" and are looking for expertise in fulfilling a multi-faceted approach to their technology needs. To meet those needs, ILS has established our Professional Services Division, staffed by technical consultants and experts in their field that will help you assess your technology needs, provide onsite deployment, best practices, and integration services.

ILS Professional Services can guide you to resources and support plans that can help maximize the ROI on your chosen solution.

Don't know where to begin?

ILS offers one- to three-day onsite assessments. Based on your objectives, we will audit your computing environment and deliver written recommendations for your specific project and solution. At that point, you can choose to engage us for further assistance.
